

Australian National University

The dominant view shaping policies from Washington to Canberra to Beijing is that there is a zero-sum trade-off between economic relations and national security. In this lecture, Kennedy presents an alternative framework that better manages economic relations with China while balancing one's national security interests.

CHINA IN THE WORLD ANNUAL LECTURE

Calibrated Coupling: Managing the Costs and Benefits of Interdependence with China

Scott Kennedy
Center for Strategic and International Studies

This event is supported by the National Foundation for Australia-China Relations.

DETAILS

Tuesday 13 August
5pm–7pm
CIW Auditorium
Bldg 188, Fellows Lane

Drinks reception

5–5:30pm

CONTACTS

ciw@anu.edu.au
ciw.anu.edu.au

REGISTER

<https://bit.ly/4cWwhRz>